

[PROVISIONAL TRANSLATION FROM PERSIAN]

[Translator's notes appear in square brackets.]

[Personal information has been redacted.]

[The excerpt below is from the section of the article that pertains to the Baha'i Faith]

[Adapted from website:] Fars News Agency

[Date:] 8 Shahrivar 1393 [30 August 2014]

The holding of an unusual clothing show by the agents of Baha'ism

According to the Fars News Agency's "Religion and Thought" reporter, after holding an unconventional clothing show, [foreign to] Iranian Islamic culture and values, in a place located in Karaj, an inspection team was sent to the place. After investigation, it was determined that this place had been active in selling women's clothes, using unconventional methods in this regard.

The clothes presented in this show had inappropriate designs and images, and contrary to Islamic values, the type of arrangement of the equipment of this place and its being equipped with facilities for photographing visitors was also very unconventional.

During the inspection, it was revealed that the executors of this project and its main investor were members of the perverse Baha'i sect.

This place was sealed due to illegal activities after identifying the perpetrators and exposing their intentions to spread inappropriate cover and weaken Islamic beliefs.

Additional news will be published later.

End of message / K