

[PROVISIONAL TRANSLATION FROM PERSIAN]

[Translator's notes appear in square brackets.]

[Personal information has been redacted.]

[The excerpt below is from the section of the article that pertains to the Baha'i Faith]

[Adapted from website:] Aref News

[Date:] 28 Shahrivar 1385 [19 September 2006]

Khani Abad, A New Place of Sectarian Education for Baha'i Students

Recently, an individual house [belonging to] Baha'i elements, located in the Khani Abad area of Tehran, has been used to set up intra-group ethics and introductory classes.

According to the Aref News website, at the end of each semester, an exam is conducted and the names of those accepted are announced to the educational liaisons of the Baha'i organization.

The names of the books within the sect that are taught to Baha'i students are: Part III The Life History of His Holiness Baha; The Story of Love; Part III The Rules and Belief Principles.